15%; fell to 15%; on Saturday, and to 15je on Wednesday, but was at 15je again on Thursday. Liverpool quoted 7 15 16d, but on Tuesday fell to 714, Memphis quoted 15 9-16c, on Saturday 15 c, on Tuesday 15 c. These figures show a steady market; New York ended the week where it began it; New Orleans declined ic, Liverpool declined 1-64, Memphis alvance! 1-16c. The remium on gold during the week has arred at the cicas of each day from 15 to lo; but on Thursday, to consequence of the choice of the secretary of the treasury in calling in thirty million of bonds, the premium at one time during the day amounted to 15%. It is observable that during the week Memphis quotations have equaled those of New Orleans. Owing to the plenty of meney in our banks, holders here are able to keep the cotton in their own hands so that the owners of it, not 'ne New York speculators, may get 'ne profits that will result from the high prices which, they anticipate, will certainly en me when the real f mount of the yea r's crop becomes undeniably appara ut. At present the cre is still a wide diver, since of views upon this subject, from 3, 800,000 to 4,0,000 may be taken as about the run of the run as about the run o', moderate views; ex-tremists go both above and below those figures. The dr mand in our market has been good all week, but the refusal of been good all week, but the refusal of bolde, is to yit ald any concession has, to American affoat. some exten", restricted the operations of buyers. Exporters have again done very little | indness, the price of cotton in New York as or appared with Liverpool, is still against them. The reason of this be sur mised from the Liverpool comp arati ve statement given below. y see that the receipts of the Commercial week at Liverpool funted to 112,000 bales against 79,000 tes the year before; there was 424,000 Ans of American cotton in stock egainst 346,000 the year before, and 323,-600) American affoat against 310,000 the previous year at the same time. Exportations to the continent of Europe have also been running high as com-pared with those of last year. We have just received Watts & Co.'s valuable Liverpool cotton report of February It would be safe to assume that the ship ments from America to Europe will fall off not more than 200,000 bales. Shipments from India, Egypt and Brazil, will probably fall 200,000 to 250,000 behind last year. It would follow that the supply of cotton in and affoat for Europe, will, at the close of August ne∠t, be probably 423,000 to 473,000 bales less than at the same date last year, provided the deliveries to the trade during the next 28 weeks should be the same as last year during the same period. This would reduce the visible apply from 17,000 to 367,000 bales bel w the figures of August, 1873. Cotton, therefore, seems to occupy, tatistically, a very strong position. We should not, however, lose sight of one fact, that not conly has the bulk of the american or control of the contro the American err p come forward earlier this season thar, usual, but the same is likely to be true of supplies from other sources. It is not impossible that the import ir to Europe, from Bombay, via the Pur a canal, may, up to the end of show an excess over last year of Cd,000 to 150,000 bales. As a consemence the actual stocks of cotton in Surope will, for some months to come, continue very large. By many it is eslimated that the stock in this port alone will, in May or June next, run up to nearly 1,000 000 bales; but a larger proortion then usual of the year's supplies rill have been received by that dme, usequently the quantity affoat will be omparatively small. In other words, the import during the first 'aslf of the year will be heavy, and the deficit we have indicated will not become apparent for some time to come. Inasmuch, therefore, as we have promise of abundant supplies for the fir A six months of he year, the course of prices in the carly future would seer a to hinge, in an eminent degree, up in the extent of the planting in Au erica the coming The last sentence is worthy of notice, as giving warning that the Price of cotton in the market will begin to be affected by the news about planting, as soon as such in-We apolog zed last week for an error in the port receipt figures of the week before. and by a singular and very mertifying inclident we were led to commit the very same error the second time. That incitelligene, becomes attainable. dent was the occurrence of 95,510 bales as the amount of the month's receipts, in the copy of the telegram we had beore us, instead of 75,510 bales. Making the necessary correction, therefore, and referring to the port table below, we observe that since Janua' g 29th, when the week's receipts were 119,000 bales, the receipts have decreased rapidly until, the last week, 'ney were only 64,500 It is also noted, that during the six weeks ncluded in 'Ae above dates, the decrease as been constant from week to week, without interruption; another two or three weeks will show that there is a significance in this. The total decrease against the same time last year, is 189,-172 bales. The highest point in the weekly Memphis receipts this season, occurred on the week ending December 4th, 20,240 bales; in the fourteen weeks since then we have run down to a recelpt of 4760 bales the present week. The following table shows the comparalive weekly and total receipts at he United States seaports up to the fates annexed:

The following are the official quotations of the cotton exchange:

..1554@1554 .16%(00:16% The market was quiet and steady; sales amounted to 1200 bales, of which spinners took 800, and speculators 400 bales. The New York Bulletin, March 12th, reported: "No indication to handle stock develops itself, and business continues very slow. One or two houses have filled a few spinning orders to-day, and this was about the only demand current, exporters refusing even to bid, as they could not come anywhere near the prices asked. Liverpool is not very favorable at the best, and margins on operations for foreign account are almost entirely cut off by the adverse positions of gold and exchange." COTTON STATEMENT.

RIVER CHRONICLE.

Meteorological and Aquatic. The weather during the past fortyeight hours has been of the most varied character, such as may always be expected during the season of the vernal equinoxes. All day Sunday the sun like; but as soon as the sun had disappeared behind the forests of Arkansas, the pluvial elements were ushered in by a stiff sou'wester, and during the entire torrents, which continued till long after daybreak yesterday morning. A slight lowering of the temperature followed the cessation of the rain, but the sun did not get in a smile till near ncon, when the clouds began to disperse rapidly, and the signs are pretty good for a spell of fair weather. The rivers above here are the absorbing interest to steamboatmen, and more par-ticularly to planters living within reach of high water. At St. Louis yesterday the river rose rapidly, with warm rains Sunday and Sunday night. The Ohio is rising at Cincinnati and stationary at Louisville. At Cairo the river is rising, with heavy rains Sunday and Sunday night. The Cumberland and Tennessee rivers are ou a stand. White river is falling, with a fair stage from Jacksonport out. Arkansas river is stationary at Little Rock, with seven feet eleven inches in the channel; the back water extends up to Pendleton's land-American cotton to-day, 7300 bales.
